Capitol City Real Estate Investors, LLC Code of Ethics

The ownership and management of real estate is one of the largest businesses in the free enterprise system of the United States. As such it involves the interaction of countless individuals and businesses to provide safe and affordable housing in the form of single family homes, condominiums and apartments, the building of new construction, and the management and occupancy of commercial, office, retail and industrial property. The multitude of related businesses including property owners and managers, financial institutions, real estate professionals, contractors, and others all seek to support and promote the success of this business.

As such, Capitol City Real Estate Investors, LLC (CCREI) has adopted a standard of competency, fairness, and high integrity for the conduct of business and interaction between individuals and businesses in the industry. Members of CCREI are thus committed to upholding high standards of conduct; not attempting to gain any unfair advantage over their competitors; refraining from making unsolicited comments about other practitioners; and acting in an objective and professional manner.

In interpretation of these and other obligations, CCREI members should accept the guide handed down through the centuries and embodied in the Golden Rule, “Whatsoever you would have others do unto you, do so unto them”. Accepting this standard, CCREI members pledge to observe in spirit and all activities through associates, other business professionals, the public and through personal contact, technological communication or other means to conduct their business in an ethical manner.

As an active member of CCREI, I/we understand and agree to conduct business in the manner detailed above and any violation of this code may result in forfeiture of my/our membership with CCREI.
